LexHack Food Sponsorship

Thank you for looking into sponsoring LexHack! As a food sponsor, you can provide food for either breakfast, lunch, and / or dinner. The more food your organization offers, the more benefits your organization will receive!

A hackathon is an all-day programming competition where computer programmers collaborate to produce a software application, game, website, or just about anything. Our event is oriented towards high school students of all programming levels.

Portions quantify (at minimum) as a catering portion. For example, rather than giving out a whole sandwich it can be a sandwich split-up into sections and each section will qualify as a portion.
